

Volunteer State Community College Off-Campus Inclement Weather Policy 2008 - 2009

McGavock Center Hunters Lane Site Livingston Center*

The decision to close at these locations is not based on county school closings, rather on local road conditions. College classes will meet unless announced on local radio and television stations. If classes are cancelled, the announcement will be specific to the site (i.e., "Vol State McGavock classes are cancelled.") and will be made as early as possible (a.m. news reports for day classes; by 3:00 p.m. for evening classes).

* The Livingston Center may open late.
Example: If the Center opens at 10:00 a.m. on a Monday, the regularly scheduled 10:10 class will be the first class to meet that day.

Madison Site

College classes at the Madison Church of Christ site will follow the same schedule as the main campus. When classes are cancelled on the main campus, classes at the Madison site are also cancelled. If the main campus opens late, the Madison site will open late. Day classes will meet at their regularly scheduled time.

Macon County High School Springfield High School Wilson Central High School

When Macon, Robertson, and/or Wilson County schools are closed due to inclement weather, College classes will not meet at the locations listed above.

Dual Enrollment Sites

Public Schools

When local county schools are closed due to inclement weather, dual enrollment classes will not meet. Local county schools may open late or close early. Check with the specific school regarding modified class schedules.

Private Schools

Check local radio and television stations for school closing information. The decision to close at these locations is not based on county school closings, rather on local road conditions. Schools may open late or close early. Check with the specific school regarding modified class schedules.

In any case, faculty and students should determine whether local road conditions prohibit safe travel.

Safety is the primary concern.

Every effort will be made by the Office of Off-Campus Sites to communicate up-to-date Site Closing information through campus e-mail.
